WE WISH

Each and Every one of Our Patrons
a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

To those in Farmville who are without the convenience of a phone, we advise you to give your ORDER NOW.

Our limit has been reached, but we propose putting in additional capacity, provided, we can secure 25 new subscribers—we have secured eleven, therefore we need only four more. Be sure you are ONE OF THAT NUM-BER.

We give the cheapest and best service in the State—$10.00 for a residence and $15.00 for a place of business.

Ask our patrons how we are serving them and be sure to

ORDER NOW,

or the limit will be again reached and you will be left out.

Leave the order at the Central Office, over the Postoffice, or at the Planters Bank, with Mr. W. P. Venable.

LAYS OF THE BARDS.

The Weed's Complaint.

It's rough,
I tell you what, an' tough. Five times I've taken root, this spring, an' tried to grow.
But ev'ry time I git a start, along That smarthy comes a-brandishin' his hoe—Ah! chop! An' there I am again. They
—I think, at least just let a fellow be,
Who wasn't doin' nothin', but they seem To have a spite agin' me. I can see,
An' I don't git no chance," said the weed.

If I was both'r' anybody—but I ain't!
Ain't havin' favors—an' ain't makin' any trouble.

I'll go along the best I know;

I wasn't even planted, but I did grow'd.

All by my lonesome—wasn't he speak,

As others are; but, less the less I look,

It seems, the more I git it in the neck—

An' I don't git no chance," said the weed.

"An' then,

Just see that dude, the cornstalk. Coddled til

It makes one tired to see. Why, you know,

He'd die if he's not basted off. Gee-whiz!

If I had had that show—or half the show that he had. Wouldn't I grow? I guess yes—

I'd top the fence in no time. Spread!

Oh, my.

An' smile? I'd pay for care. I would, an' be
The pride of this whole garden 'fore I die—

But I don't git no chance," said the weed.
